THE DIFFERENCE IS IN THE DETAILS

Enthusiast - Owned Real Deal Steel Builds New Steel Bodies in the United States.

Real Deal Steel is at the forefront of the development and production of steel reproduction bodies for classic American muscle cars. We are proud to assemble the finest quality steel bodies in the business for nearly a decade. We have assembled & delivered over 1,000 steel bodies since we began!

RDS 1955 Sedan Built for CPP's Week-to-Wicked with Super Chevy

Like the steel panels that we use, our bodies are assembled to the highest quality standards, with the restoration industry's best fitment and body gaps. Our bodies are available as a skeleton, complete body or complete body with front end sheet metal package. Our bodies can be seen throughout the world in restoration, custom and race builds.

At our state-of-the-art production facility in Sanford, FL, we assemble Tri-Five Chevy, Chevy II Nova, Camaro and Firebird bodies everyday on one of five different assembly stations. We work closely with our sheet metal manufacturers to assure the finest quality and best fitting panels that are designed to work hand-in-hand with your OEM panels.

How We Build a Body

Each body starts with a body-specific steel platform mounted to a heavy-duty rotisserie on which the floor assembly is built. From there we assemble our custom fixtures that include numerous cam-locks & mounting points that fit into factory tooling holes. Our fixtures are hand crafted with years of refinement and adjustments for the best body every time. The fixtures are originally built inside of several original bodies and periodically test-fit in different original bodies for fitment checking. Our steel panels are then carefully assembled and fit around our fixtures thus duplicating the original specifications. We use 220-V water-cooled spot welders for factory-appearing welds, and we add more welds than original cars for added strength and rigidity.

All panels used on our bodies are also sold separately. We only use the latest tooling and molds for the best products available. Many panels available in the marketplace have more than one set of tooling. Some tools can be decades old, so be sure you are buying the latest, best-fitting panels available today. There are other manufacturers that offer steel bodies, but we are proud to say that NOBODY else works directly with the parts manufacturers and uses the factory-assembly techniques that we do!

Our steel bodies are shipped around the world to builders or car owners for a full restoration build, many using original donor parts with our bodies. Many have gone on to become award winning show cars, with some being used to build world-class race cars, including road race and drag race cars. Several have sold for over $200,000!

THE PROCESS. BUILT BETTER.

Not all bodies are built the same. Real Deal Steel uses a solid heavy steel foundation that mimics the factory chassis. We start each build on this solid platform for a consistent fit. We then assemble each body around our custom jig that has all of the factory mounting points — Fitting into original panel tooling holes.

Our welding process is also crucial to the building process. Our water cooled resistance spot welders provide a solid weld with a factory-like finish. We actually use more welds than an original car. This adds strength to each body we build. Each jig has been painstakingly built to factory specs for a consistent fit.

WHEN SHOULD I BUY A REAL DEAL STEEL BODY?

It is often difficult to decide how to progress with your project car. When you or the shop has stripped the car down and perhaps sent the body and parts out for media blast or dipping, the results can be shocking! What was once a car that needed a few patches now has major rust holes in every panel.

The quotation from the shop for the panels and labor just to get the body into shape so final bodywork can be done may often exceed the cost of a new body. If that occurs, it is time to consider a new RDS body. If the shop indicates that the car only needs floors, trunk floor, rockers and a quarter panel - then keeping and building your original body may be best. Consider cost, time frame (many shops will take YEARS to complete - or may never complete a BIG rustoration project), the quality car you want (driver or high-end), and of course, emotion.

Some enthusiasts have the car that they owned when they were 16, or it's been in the family since new...and they want THAT car. Be aware that you may spend far more building the rusty car, but only you know if you will be happy with a "new" body verses the repaired original.

Does a Replacement Body Affect the Value?

We are often asked "Will the car built using the new RDS body be worth less than my original restored body?" There is no always - true answer, but consider the potential purchaser of your finished car. They want to purchase a car that is clean, fits well, drives well, appeals to them visually and comfort-wise - and most importantly, one that will last. They don't want to deal with rust bubbles or cracks in body work or poor appearance due to major patches & repairs. That said, the restoration featuring our reproduction body vs. a rusty patch-job will often have more value.

ARE REAL DEAL STEEL'S PARTS PERFECT?

No. While we carry the best reproduction sheet metal parts available, many times it is the ONLY part available. We work with several large manufacturers and help them produce new parts as well as improve existing parts. Many times, the part is so complex and the tooling so difficult and expensive to make, that there may be flaws or shortcomings in the final part. So why not just have the manufacturer "fix" the issues? Manufacturer corrections can be easy (changing trim dies, moving laser cut hole locations, using proper gauge steel), yet other times it is difficult or impossible due to the expense of the tooling and the low sales volume of the part.

Since we are enthusiasts like you, we work on our own cars. Plus, we have built thousands of new steel bodies using the very same parts we sell. We have learned how obtain the best results when using these parts with flaws, when no alternative is available, and are more than happy to share information on the flaws and remedies where possible. These items are marked with a + following the description in the catalog. To review the flaws and remedies visit realdealsteel.com and enter the SKU into the search box. When viewing the item, there will be a final bullet point labeled "Challenges".

There you can view our assessment of the shortcomings & flaws along with our suggested remedies.

Why do we tell you this when no one else does? We would much rather you elect NOT to purchase an item from us than to purchase it and be completely unhappy. If you are unhappy with an item, it costs you to return it and it costs us our reputation in the marketplace. If you know in advance that an item likely has issues that will need to be corrected by you or your installer to make an excellent repair on your vehicle, then we have done our job by letting you know exactly what to expect before you decide to purchase the item.

Be aware that the very same part where we may be pointing out the "challenges" to you, other suppliers may be more than willing to sell you that same part and call it "perfect". Why do they do this? Other than being primarily interested in making the sale, there is nearly a 100% chance they have never installed the part on a car. Chances are they have never even seen the part - they are simply a reseller and not an enthusiast. Once you receive any item from us, we are happy to answer any fitment or installation questions you or your installer may have. We have installed each and every part we sell!

ARE REAL DEAL STEEL'S BODIES PERFECT?

No. Even with our precise fixtures & assembly techniques, every body we produce will have flaws. Often, the flaws are the fault of the parts we use, sometimes the flaws are created in the process of assembly. We advise customers that most bodies will require 60-80 hours of final metal finishing, fitting & filler before they are ready for final primer.

What are the flaws? We do not add any fillers or seam sealers to our new-steel bodies. That way, when you receive yours, what you see is what you get – nothing is hidden. Factory seams that were filled with lead will be raw welded seams on a Real Deal Steel body. Those seams include: cowl to A-pillar, A-pillar to top skin, rocker to quarter panel, C-pillar to top skin, quarter panel to rear deck filler, outer quarter panel to trunk panels, tailpanel to trunk panel. These areas are best filled not with lead, but with modern waterproof heavy strand fillers like SEM Carbo-Fill then final finished with high-quality lightweight body filler.

We recommend fitting ALL of your exterior trim to the body before completing the final bodywork. This does not always mean securing with clips and fasteners – just place them on the body (particularly windshield and rear glass trim) to make certain everything fits properly before final paint. Areas where glass trim is installed is often near seams that must be filled, and too much or too little filler can create unsightly gaps between the body and the trim.

We recommend placing the body on the frame (1955-57 Chevy only) and installing all body bolts and shims before test fitting front end sheet metal and final fitting doors and deck lids. The frame should be on all four wheels and tires or at least supported to simulate all four wheels and tires. Even when bolted securely to the frame, the bodies can flex wildly depending on where a jack is placed. Poor alignment and impossible gaps are often easily adjusted by adding or subtracting shims at specified points per the GM Shimming and Adjustments Guide shown on realdealsteel.com. Click on "News" and scroll down to 1955-57 Chevy Body Fit & Adjustments for the complete guide.

For cars with front subframes, these should be installed and aligned before front end sheet metal is fitted. Don't expect that your reproduction or used or NOS sheet metal is going to fit perfectly. Adjusting, bending, even cutting & welding can be required to obtain show-car gaps. Go to realdealsteel.com, click on "News" & scroll down to Real Deal Steel NMCA '69 Camaro RS/SS Quick Build for some tips & what to expect.

The Real Deal Steel assembly factory will often cut and slightly modify a panel, re-weld and metal finish to obtain a satisfactory door or trunk gap when assembling our new bodies. These areas will require final metal finishing and filler before final primer and paint can be applied.

Why do we tell you this? We want you to be 100% happy with your new steel body purchase. The decision to purchase a reproduction body is an expensive one and should not be taken lightly. We want you and your body man to be aware that additional fit, finish and bodywork will be required before the body is ready to paint and assemble!

HOW DO I TITLE AND REGISTER A CAR BUILT USING A REAL DEAL STEEL BODY?

Get the fact sheet from your local DMV or your state DMV website.

Document all build sales & receipts.

If you do not have a new or original chassis with a title or MSO, you will need to register the car built with a Real Deal Steel body as a "Newly Assembled" vehicle with your state. While we do not issue an MSO, you will be issued a Bill of Sale (your purchase invoice) by the dealer you purchased your body from. This invoice will be considered as an MSO by your state DMV (check your local laws and regulations). You can find state specific information by visiting the SEMA Action Network's page: You can find the link to your state on our website where the Florida license plate is at the top of the homepage.

BEFORE YOU START — Know what kind of documentation that the state is going to require for issuing title. Get fact sheets from your state's Department of Motor Vehicles. Read them carefully, and keep all of that information in mind as you buy your parts and build your car. Major parts like engines, transmissions and frames make sure you get adequate proof of purchase documentation. For major components like engines, make sure the bill has the VIN or serial number on it. Keep all bills of sale, invoices, & even canceled checks, credit card receipts or statements. For example: a bill of sale should have the vendor's name and address, your name, a description of the part, and the amount and date of purchase.

From the very first part you buy keep a build diary. Things like major component disassembly/assembly, sanding/blasting, painting, etc. should be recorded. VIN and serial numbers should be documented by photographs or rubbings, or both.

TIPS FROM THE GARAGE

Fit and Trim

Any time a windshield, back glass or trim opening is disturbed with the installation of a new panel, use your trim pieces as a guide to move everything into the right place. New panels may need to be cut & re-shaped to fit your original or reproduction trim. Doing this when the panels are being installed is much better than waiting to test fit after the car is painted!

Do the Twist

Original and reproduction doors alike can be tough to fit to the door openings. Even after adjusting the hinges to the body and the door to the hinges, the doors still may not fit. A common issue is the door hanging out past the quarter panel at the top or the bottom. Fixing this on reproduction doors is quite easy. Cut a small block of wood, place it between the door and the body at the top or bottom and attach a cheap ratchet strap at the bottom or top (opposite the block of wood) and ratchet the door to "twist" it until it fits the quarter opening evenly.

1-PIECE
REAR

Nothing cleans up the look of a nice '55-57 like a set of our "Smoothie" bumpers. Manufactured in one piece – just like the original GM "California" one-piece chrome bumpers except ours have all of the ugly bumper bolt and guard holes eliminated. They are perfectly smooth! The center brackets are welded to the bumper before final finish and copper/nickel/chrome plating to ensure a wave-free surface. In addition, bolt pockets are installed at each bumper brace location so that your stock bumper braces can be used – without showing those ugly bolts!

1955-56 CHEVY "SMOOTHIE" COWL PANEL

With modern AC systems, use of the factory fresh air vents is often eliminated. The top cowl vent grille remains an "ugly" feature that only invites water and trash into the cowl plenum. Beautify it the easy way with one of our new exact-fit "smoothie" top panels. Simply paint and bolt-on. No cutting or welding required! Allows use of your stock wiper escutcheons.

1955-57 CHEVY
& SEDAN FULLY
WELDED ROOF/
TOP ASSEMBLIES

Roof structure & top skin rust is increasingly common in the Tri-5's being restored today.

Often the top skin has impossible to repair rust near the drip rails and the top structure rots especially in the C-pillar areas. Complete assemblies make top repair much easier – replace the entire top!. It sounds like a big job, but if you measure carefully, test fit your glass, this method is easier and longer lasting than welding a bunch of patches in your original. The 2-door hardtop assemblies are fully fixture welded with drip rails and skin completely attached. The 2-door sedan assemblies have the drip rails and top skin tech-screwed in place because the quarter panels above the quarter window area must be fitted by the end user before final welding. Built on the same fixtures we use to produce our new bodies.

1957 CHEVY HOOD CROSS BRACE FOR USE WITH CENTER OUTLET RADIATORS

Made the way GM should have made it. The installation of long water pump small blocks, engines with serpentine belt drives or a big block means you must move the radiator into the 6-cylinder position in front of the core support top bar. To ease radiator hose routing, use of a 1955-56 style center outlet radiator is the way to go. This creates a problem – now the hood won't shut! Our carefully designed cross brace is notched (looks like factory!) in the center to allow use of the center outlet 6-cylinder position radiator. Just paint and install!

1955-57 CHEVY ENLARGED TRANSMISSION TUNNEL FOR LATE MODEL TRANSMISSIONS

Finally, a solution for the installation of the GM 6L80, 6L90 and Tremec T-56 transmissions. These popular transmissions are often coupled to LS engines and create some major clearance issues with the original transmission tunnel. Ours are a full 2" larger to allow transmission installation without lowering the gage member and changing the driveline angle. Made in the USA using 16-gauge steel, they are available for use with stock firewalls or our 4" recessed firewalls. Also available as an upgrade on any of our 55-57 bodies!

1955 & 1957 FULL QUARTER PANELS

There are several Tri-5 "full" quarter panels on the market, but some of them are not "full"! Our full panels are made in one piece just like GM made them. They include the complete door jamb area, upper extension to trunk lid & the trunk trough! Others may include just the face skin which requires extensive cutting & welding along non-factory seams. Our full panels install right at the factory seams!

1955-57 TIPS FROM THE GARAGE

Battle of the Bulge - When installing a reproduction

Tri-5 quarter panel, it is difficult to obtain that nice, flat surface on the quarter panel behind the door & the over the wheel opening. The new quarters have a tendency to "bulge" which creates a serious challenge when it comes time to do final bodywork.

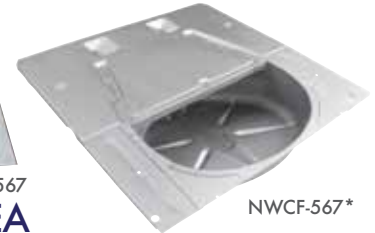

1. Don't force the bottom of the quarter up to match the inner rocker if it hangs down. Doing so increases the bulge. If needed, use your cutoff wheel & score a line (no need to cut all the way through) at the bottom radius of the quarter so it can be pushed into shape without causing the outer panel to bulge.
2. Raise the rear of the quarter up before securing it to the trunk opening area. Pull up on the quarter at the rear, you will see the bulge lessen dramatically.
3. Pull the panel inboard using a strap and Vice Grips in the wheel opening, cut some pie-slots in the inner wheel opening flange and re-weld. This will help flatten the face of the quarter between the door opening and the wheel opening.

1955-57 CHEVY MINI-TUBS

Developed by Real Deal Steel nearly ten years ago, this popular conversion has brought thousands of Tri-5's into the modern pro-touring era!

The original narrow tubs only allow for up to an 8" wheel and maximum 275mm tire. With our mini-tubs and some rear suspension mods, you can utilize a 12" wheel and a big 335mm of rubber! Mini-tubs fit all non-wagons and are also available pre-installed on our hardtop and sedan inner quarters. Also available as an upgrade on any of our 55-57 bodies!

1955-57 CHEVY KICK PANEL WINDLACE RETAINERS

Originals are always rusty or bent (or missing!). Always. Ours are brand new, fit perfectly and unlike others on the market; they are drilled to fit 1955, 1956 & 1957 Chevy - all body styles. We manufacture them with the windlace groove wider than others to ease installation of the stubborn windlace cord.

1957 CHEVY REALDUCTION FRESH AIR INTAKE & BLOCK-OFF SYSTEMS

Many custom car builders don't want to install those clunky original fresh air ducts that run from the headlight area back to the firewall on all 1957's. But, to eliminate them means you have holes in the firewall and no way to mount the headlights. With RealDuction, you can block off the air ducts or crate a single or dual cold-air induction system for your LS or other engine and still properly install your headlights! And get rid of those cumbersome original ducts.

BODY BOLT ADJUSTMENTS

The correct torquing of body bolts is very important. incorrect tightening can cause sill misalignment and poor door fit. Also, incorrect tightening causes many road vibrations, body creaks and other non-constant noises.

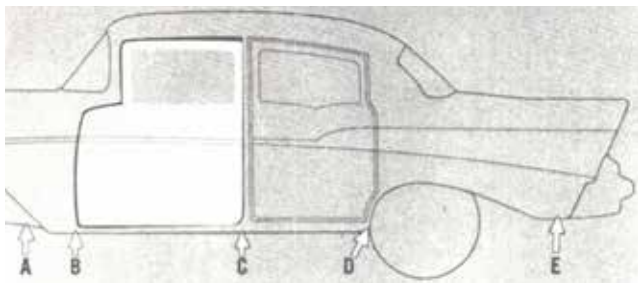

Torque body bolts in all models but convertible to 25 to 35 foot pounds. Torque convertible bolts to 10 to 12 foot pounds. Always torque body bolts before proceeding with door adjustments.

BODY SHIMMING

In cases where door adjustments will not correct the fit of doors, the answer is body shimming. Carefull study should be made before proceeding with shimming in order not to create a new problem by trying to correct an existing one. Correct body shimming, as shown in the following examples, demonstrates basic principles of shimming, but does not necessarily show exact location of body bolts.

EXAMPLE 1: On all models except convertible - front door crowds at top and is widely spaced at the bottom near the center pillar. To correct, add shims at point "A" or reduce shims at point "B".

EXAMPLE 2: On all models except convertible - front door crowds at sill and at top of center pillar, and is widely spaced at the roof rail. To correct, add shims at point "B" or reduce shims at point "A".

EXAMPLE 3: On all four door models - front door crowds at top with space at sill, and rear door crowds sill with space at top. Both doors fit correctly at hinge pillars. To correct, add shims at point "C".

EXAMPLE 4: On all four door models - front door crowds sill with space at the top, and rear door crowds top with space at the sill. To correct, reduce shims at point "C" or add shims st balance of shim points.

EXAMPLE 5: On convertibles - door crowds top and upper center pillar, leaving wide space at sill and at lower center pillar, leaving wide space at sill and at lower center pillar. To correct, add shims as required at point "C".

EXAMPLE 6: On convertibles - door crowds sill and leaves space at center pillar, tapering from wide at top to narrow at bottom. To correct, reduce shims at point "C" or add shims, as necessary, to other points.

EXAMPLE 7: On convertibles - door crowds upper part of center pillar. To correct, add shims at points "A", "B" and "C" or reduce shims at point "D".

EXAMPLE 8: On convertibles - door crowds top, leaving space at center pillar, tapering from wide at top to narrow at bottom. To correct, add shims at point "D" as required.

1966-67 CHEVY-II NOVA BODIES

1966-67 CHEVY II/NOVA STEEL BODIES

The second-gen Chevy II has always been a favorite among X-Body enthusiasts. Small, lightweight and simple – they make excellent street and race cars. Available in 1966 or 1967 trim, our Chevy II Nova bodies are fixture welded to exacting standards to provide you with a new, rust-free beginning for your Chevy II dream build. ## CHEVY-II TIPS FROM THE GARAGE

Tub Lips

Many of our 66-67 Chevy II builds feature DSE's wider wheel tubs which allow use of a 315mm rear tire. For better and easier fit, we like to leave a 1" lip on the factory inner tub and remove the flange from the DSE wider tub before installing. This creates a lap-weld situation where it is much easier to position the new wider tub to both the inner body structure and the outer wheelhouse. The wider tub can be indexed without it being "forced" into one spot (which can create huge gaps and distort the outer quarters) by the mating of the factory pinchweld flanges.

1967-73 CAMARO BODIES

1967-69 CAMARO COUPE BODIES

America's (& possibly the world's!) ultimate muscle car – period. The first-gen Camaro body is our most popular. All are skinned using 18-gauge exterior skins – far better than the flimsy 20-gauge panels that others use! Ask your bodyman – he'll tell you the big difference. Available with factory AC firewall, stock heater firewall or heater delete and stock tubs or our wider wheel tubs which allow up to 335mm of rear tire! Also now available with the popular DSE Quadralink rear crossmember installed.

Our Camaro Race Car Bodies eliminate the firewall, dash, floor, trunk floor, frame rails and wheel housings. These bodies are ready for your chassis and carbon fiber or fiberglass lightweight components. Total weight under 350 lbs!

Bodies ship truck freight via body shipping table, or can be picked up in Sanford, FL with no freight charges.

Assembled in the USA
with Real Steel!

CAMARO TIPS FROM THE GARAGE

Floating Wheelhouses

Fitting the outer quarter panels on a 67-69 Camaro is a battle. If the outer wheelhouses are attached to the inner body first, you have painted yourself into a corner. So many things have to fit just right in order to get good door, glass, rocker, trunk & taillight panel gaps & fit. One way to ease this fitment process is to let the outer wheelhouses "float" when installing new quarters. Place the wheelhouses in between the inner body structure & the outer quarters but don't screw or weld them yet. Floating the wheelhouses will let you change their position until the outer quarters fit well. Once the fit is satisfactory, attach the wheelhouses to the outer quarter openings & weld that seam first. Then weld to the inner body structure.

Pull the Sails

Another area of difficulty when fitting the quarters on a 67-69 Camaro is creating a nice, even door gap. When the quarters are test fit, often the door gap will be good at the bottom but much too wide at the top. To fix, the quarter must be pulled ahead at the top while it is anchored with tech screws at the bottom. We simply attach a pair of vice-grips & pull the quarter ahead & into place with a cheap ratchet strap.

WHAT DO WE DO AT REAL DEAL STEEL?

A stroll through Real Deal Steel's Sanford, Florida USA plant will reveal active body assembly stations as well as our parts warehouse where we stock products for body assembly and parts for shipment to dealers and customers.

BODY ASSEMBLY

All of our complete body shells are officially licensed by General Motors (Chevy and Camaro). All RDS bodies are assembled using water-cooled automobile factory resistance spot welders just like GM used to assemble the originals. RDS received factory-direct training on the proper assembly procedures and techniques and participates in a continuing education program to keep abreast of all changes and improvements in the process.

All Real Deal Steel bodies are painstakingly test-fitted with doors and a trunk lid to be certain that all panels fit properly when the customer receives the order. In addition to fixturing, Real Deal Steel test fits the windshield and backglass (closed cars only) to make certain the end user will not have glass fitment issues. Additional fitting and bodywork (including seam filling) will be necessary by the end user but "moving metal around" will be unnecessary or minor at most.

RDS ONLY builds new bodies and supplies parts. We specialize in just these areas, ensuring the best results. We do not offer turn-key cars nor do we do any type of restoration work.

RESEARCH & DEVELOPMENT

RDS has designed countless products that you see for sale on our website & from other dealers. Over 100 of these items are proprietary to RDS. In addition, we have made (and continue to make) over 250 major & minor improvements in the quality of the sheet metal body parts that were already on the market for the 1955-57 Chevy cars but were made incorrectly or had severe fitment issues.

PARTS SALES

In addition to our proprietary products, RDS sells many other sheet metal and body related parts to our dealers and customers. This has developed simply due to demand from our dealers and repeat customers that don't wish to shop elsewhere.
